SANDY'S DAILY MESSAGE

Our 5th week of lockdown over and it looks as though as a community we have coped exceedingly well.

Teachers, therapists and parents are communicating on a regular basis, be it via telephone, email or video meetings.

Our video sessions on the website have been set up, enabling the children to see familiar staff members reading stories or leading an activity. We even hope to upload a yoga session soon.

Our daily update continues to be highly popular, thank you for all the lovely positive comments we receive in this respect.

Most of you should have received your first weekly e-newsletter from our OT team today, individualized for each class and providing lots of activities and suggestions for you to enjoy with your child. Those of you who usually receive hard copies, should receive them in the post shortly.

Our school office is opened as usual between the hours of 8.30am and 4.00pm, but remember in case of an emergency our special mobile number is still active: 07436 364907.

Until Monday, stay safe, stay well and stay indoors!

Sandy

ACTIVITIES / LINKS THAT MIGHT BE HELPFUL

Roundabout Dramatherapy have offered us access to a link of on-line resources, all of which are being added to on a daily basis.

<https://www.roundaboutdramatherapy.org.uk/covid-19-update/>

Do take a look and see if there is anything of interest.

Some of you may have started your fasting and self-reflection for Ramadam. Uzma, one of our SSAs has put together a child friendly resource, explaining what Ramadam is all about.

If you wish to be sent a copy of this, please let Sue R know.

WHAT'S EVERYONE BEEN UP TO?

Jessica (one of our Midday Supervisors) has been enjoying reading our daily updates with her family and her daughter Lily-Maye was so impressed with all the rainbows our pupils have painted, that she created her own mega piece of rainbow art outside her home. She wants to send personal thanks to everyone here at The Link. We are very impressed with both her design and her patience.

Well done Lily-Maye!

Liam has been enjoying himself in the garden, in particular he is enjoying studying snails and their trails. This particular snail is called Steven. A possible malacologist in the making? (google it we did!!!)

In our garden at school, Olha has been working with the pupils and is busy planting runner beans, which we hope will grow to form an arch between two of our raised beds. Watch this space to see if our plans materialize.

Habeeb was busy at school yesterday being very patriotic and painting an English flag to herald St. George's Day. Unfortunately, as is often the case, the paint did not dry in time to show off his skills in our update and both he and Nic were a little upset. But today, we are proud to display his flag, which is now on display in our windows.

A SPECIAL DELIVERY

You may remember from one of our earlier Daily Updates, that one of our pupils - Archie in Pine Class - had designed an invention which he thought would be a good idea to help stop the spread of Corona Virus.

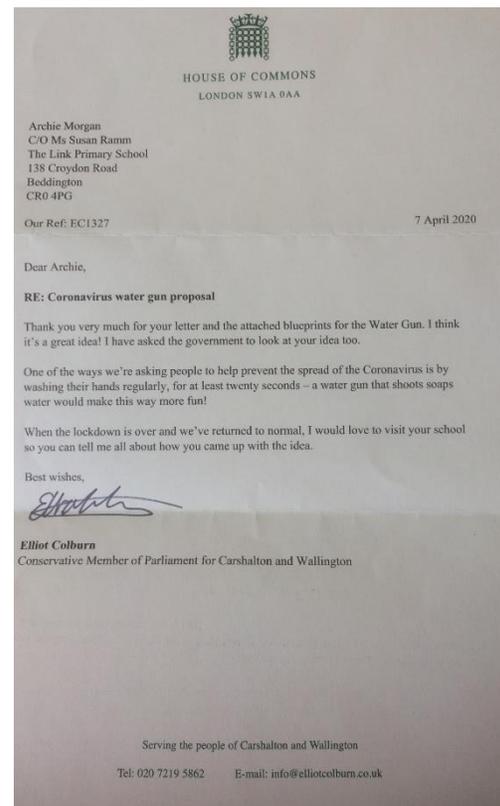

Well it seems that Archie is not the only one who thinks this is a good idea, because today, he received a letter from The House of Commons. Elliot Colburn MP was equally impressed and has written to Archie praising him and thanking him for sending the blueprints in.

Elliott has also said that he would love to visit The Link to hear more about this from Archie and once the lockdown is over, this will be arranged.

Archie and his parents have agreed to share his letter, the original of which has gone home to be framed.

A huge thumbs up from all of us Archie. Well done! 👍

And on that note, we wish you all a good weekend.
