SANDY'S DAILY MESSAGE

Unbelievably, we are now in the final half term of the academic year. This year has been so strange. Work has now begun to aid our 2020 leavers with their transition to their new schools.

By now parents of our Y6 leavers should have received details in respect of our "This is Me" project which focusses on their talents and abilities and how they have changed over time. This will help them through their transition to secondary school.

We will be inviting ALL our leavers and their families to a special assembly, which this year will have to take place via Zoom at 4.30pm on Wednesday, 15th July.

An invitation and explanatory letter will be sent out shortly, but do save the date to ensure you can attend this unique assembly.

ACTIVITIES / LINKS THAT MIGHT BE HELPFUL

Those of you who are enjoying completing the Lockdown Project will find attached today's worksheet entitled 'Mementoes'. It will be so interesting to look back on this project in years to come and remember just how well we all coped in containing this virus.

Michelle has set a challenge for you all today. She wants to see if anyone is able to crack an egg without using their hands! Impossible we hear you shout! It's certainly got us thinking. Take a look at her youtube channel today () to get a few ideas as to how this could possibly be achieved.

On Friday, she will reveal the ways in which anyone has managed to do this. We can't wait to see these results and hope the challenge doesn't prove too messy!

WHAT'S EVERYONE BEEN UP TO?

Lily from Hazel Class and her family went for a walk over the weekend and just look at the beautiful wooden statues they found in the midst of Banstead Woods.

It looks as though a wonderful, magical adventure was the order of the day.

It's great to see so many of the children getting involved in outdoor activities.

Leyland from Oak Class spent the weekend on a fishing trip.

He sent us evidence of his catch of the day, to prove this wasn't a case of 'the one that got away!' He managed to reel it in with the help of his Dad, Gavin, We are really impressed Leyland. What a lovely day out that must have been.
