SANDY'S DAILY MESSAGE

We are currently looking for a new Parent Governor to replace Lily Nwosu, as she will be leaving us when Sydney starts her new secondary school. Although officially she remains on the body until the end of August, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking Lily for her support and help with developing the school and helping to plan for our future.

The Parent Governor's input is one that I really value, as you are the 'voice' of the parents. You have a vested interest in our school and your contribution to the Board is extremely important.

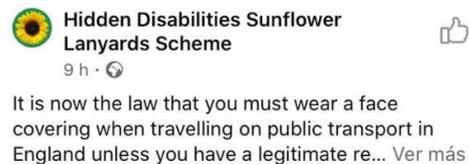

If anyone is interested in learning more about this role and what it entails, please do not hesitate to contact me.

You will find a copy of the nomination letter attached.

Sandy

ACTIVITIES / LINKS THAT MIGHT BE HELPFUL

Now it is law to wear a face covering when travelling on public transport in England unless you have a legitimate reason not to do so, Naz has found an organization that can issue lanyards that explain the wearer has a hidden disability. For more information please head to the Hidden Disabilities Sunflower Lanyards Scheme on facebook.

WHAT'S EVERYONE BEEN UP TO?

Luke was really excited about returning to school and he enjoyed his first day back last week.

We're looking forward to seeing him again tomorrow, but today he went for a walk with his dog and found the biggest dandelion clock ever! Unfortunately, it turns out that dandelion clocks are not always that accurate, as when he blew it this afternoon, it said the time was 5.00pm!! Julia, his Mum assures us that a lot of fun was had, even though the time was inaccurate.

Here in school, Willow Class have been working hard on their number work this week. Whether they learn through play, using worksheets or sing-a-long songs, reinforcement of their numeracy skills is happening all the time - even when they don't realise they are learning!
