As I write, I hear the good news that the daily death rate for C-19 has dropped for the first time in days.

Let's hope that this lockdown has done some good. C-19 is an awful virus and anyone who is flippant about it does not understand how debilitating it can be.

Although our school sites are much quieter, the work being put into providing on-line sessions and remote learning has to be acknowledged and I thank both schools for all they have done in this respect.

Team work has never been so important and plays a huge part in ensuring our young peoples' access to education continues, albeit so differently to when they are in school.

Stay safe.

WHAT'S BEEN HAPPENING AT THE LINK?

Some of the primary school topics this term sound very exciting. Beech and Willow Classes are discovering 'Treasure and Pirates'. What a wonderful way to engage our young learners in the curriculum. We hear one young man went home in his pirate attire and went to bed with his pirate hook safely under his pillow.

It is lovely to receive photographs from those who are learning at home too. Georgia's Mum said she has been working so hard on her numeracy work and remembering Frances' popular cookery sessions from last lockdown, she made a trifle and sent in a picture to show us how well it had turned out. Well done Georgia - a big thumbs up from all of us!

AND FINALLY .....

We'd love to see your photos of what you have been doing at home too. Send them into Sue or Karen in the school offices and spread some joy across our community.
